Dea. Ethel:

Surprised? You must be.

In February, there was a notice in the Diamond Drill that Linda Bosanko Shattuck of Hollister, California, was inquiring about relatives of the Thomas & Elizabeth family.

I wrote her a note and she called me. She is making up a genealogy of the Bosanko family. She has over a thousand records, many from South Africa and Australia. She had been doing this since she was 12 years old. Don't know how old she is now but she has 3 small children.

I have the family Bible and am trying to get the information together but it is pretty incomplete.

The Bible doesn't say where your mother was born. Linda has the birth certificates of William, Alberta, Lillian and Estella but no record of your mother. She got these from Lake Linden. She has records from the 1900 and 1910 census and records of births, deaths and marriages. She did have Elizabeth Robbins name but that was all. It looks like she was born in England. Do you know?

Also do you remember the family speaking of Thomas Bosanko who was 4 years old when he died? That is all I can remember about him. Linda didn't even have his name although she knew there were 7 children.

Linda wants to come here this summer.
Seems there were some relatives in Ishpeming, Megaunee and Marquette. Don't know who they may be.

Weren't the Oates related to Grandma?
How about the Hoskings? I never really knew who was related to whom in those days.

I've never been interested in geneologies before but once you start looking up things, it is interesting. And here is the payoff--
Linda was adopted. Kind of wierd, isn't it?
Hope you can fill in the spaces.

Hope you are well and on the go all the time. Are you coming here this summer?
That would be nice. Hello to Diane and Lynn.

Love,

Stella Mae

Instructions for stimulus-control therapy

1. Go to bed only when sleepy.
2. The bed should be used only for sleeping (not for reading or watching television).
3. If not asleep within a few minutes, or if getting tense or anxious in bed, get out of bed and return to bed only when sleepy. If not able to fall asleep again, repeat until able to fall asleep within a few minutes.
4. If you still are not able to fall asleep, repeat Step 3 as often as necessary.
5. Get up at the same time each morning (even if slept for only a short time).
6. Do not take naps during the day.

Hello Jay,

I have BOSANKOs from Sithney Parish, some over in Boscadjack, near th border to Wendron Parish. If you send me your names, I will compare against the names I have. I believe that the BOSANKOs in Sithney Pari descend from Thomas BOSANKO & Margaret ROGERS married 1810, Sithney Parish. However, Thomas BOSANKO is the illegitimate son of Mary BOSAN and she appears to be from another parish. (?Wendron or Crowan) Borella

Tolcarne-Wartha is a tiny place about half way between Helston and Redruth. I looked in my guide to place names and roughly it appears t Tolcarne means "front, rockpile". Wartha means "above" or "higher."
(Tolcarne-Wartha is about 1/2 mile north of a place called Tolcarne.)
Others on this list can probably translate this better for you.

Wendron Parish has very good parish records that have been microfilme by the LDS library almost right up to the present. If you send for th you may be able to both track backwards and forwards.

THE DIAMOND DRILLMay - 1929LOCAL STUDENTS ARE CHAMPIONS.

Win first place in Contest Saturday at Kalamazoo.
Pile up 61 point total.

Miss Hagglund First in 120 Word Event; Miss Gribble Second in Typewriting.

Crystal Falls High School won the State typewriting contest held at Kalamazoo last Saturday. Six students of the local high school commercial class swept their alma mater into victory by piling up a total of 61 points.

The closest competitor was Wyandotte with 50 points. Battle Creek representatives came in third having 49 marks. That school placed first last year. Fourth was Monroe, score 44; fifth Owosso, 38; and sixth St. Patrick's (Hancock) score 24.

Besides winning this unique distinction, Crystal Falls, through the accuracy of Miss Mabel Hagglund, won first in the 120 word a minute shorthand dictation contest, thereby retaining the coveted honor brought to the school last year when Aaron Tufts placed first in that event and set a State record.

Miss Hagglund's victory was scored as 96.5 percent accuracy. The runner up, Clarice Anderson of Kingsford, got a mark of 91.5 accuracy. It was the third time in five years that Crystal Falls contestants walked away with the prize in this event. In 1925 Miss Anna Camilli gained the distinction. Miss Hagglund made three errors. Mr. Tufts had two.

Valedictorian Wins 2nd.

Not to be outdone, Miss Ethel Gribble, Valedictorian of the Senior Class, copped second place in the 60-word accuracy typewriting event. She scored 98.9 words a minute. Miss Mae Kreter of Wyandotte won first by scoring 99.1 words. Third went to Margaret Johnson, Battle Creek, with a score of 97.3 words.

These two students piled up a 38 point total for the school. Miss Hagglund scoring 20 and Miss Gribble 18. The rest of the 61 points were gained on fourths to tenths in the other nine events. Just who won and how the local students placed is not known at this time. A complete announcement of those winning is expected soon.

The six students who were accompanied by Miss Anneline Fauri, commercial instructor, left Crystal Falls Friday. They returned Monday to be greeted by the entire school which assembled at the St. Paul Depot to pay honors. The victory was a unique distinction for Miss Fauri because she is a graduate of the Western State Teachers College at which the contest was held. She has resigned her place here.

Those who took the trip and represented Crystal Falls in the contest were: Miss Gribble, Miss Hagglund, Dora Schober, Elvi Salmi, Eva Melmberg and Helen Zavada.

Instructions for stimulus-control therapy

1. Go to bed only when sleepy.
2. The bed should be used only for sleeping (not for reading or watching television).
3. If not asleep within a few minutes, or if getting tense or anxious in bed, get out of bed and return to bed only when sleepy. If not able to fall asleep again, repeat until able to fall asleep within a few minutes.
4. If you still are not able to fall asleep, repeat Step 3 as often as necessary.
5. Get up at the same time each morning (even if slept for only a short time).
6. Do not take naps during the day.

Crystal Falls representatives faced a field of 207 contestants from 70 schools in the State. The six from here were part of 20 students from seven schools in the Upper Peninsula.

Just how the U.P. schools ranked is shown in the following summary:
----- second in advanced typewriting, Miss Gribble,
Crystal Falls, ----- first in advanced shorthand, Miss Hagglund, Crystal Falls, -----
In other words, the U. P. schools represented, although there were but seven, got three firsts, three seconds, and one third, in the nine events.
The lower peninsula 50 schools gained six firsts, six seconds, and eight thirds.

The complete list of local winners will be printed when it is received here by Miss Pauri.

Expenses for the trip were paid jointly by the school district, the High School council, and the commercial department.

Lt. Gen. Gribble Dies; Ex-Chief of Engineers

Retired Army Lt. Gen. William Charles Gribble Jr., 62, chief of engineers of the Army from 1973 until his retirement in 1976, died Saturday of cancer in DeWitt Army Hospital at Fort Belvoir.

As chief of engineers, Gribble had many important military and civil responsibilities. He was the principal adviser to the Army chief of staff on all military engineering matters, and as such, directed a $2 billion annual construction program for the Army, Air Force and other government agencies.

Gribble also directed the federal government's major planning and construction program for the development of the nation's water resources.

For two years before he became chief of engineers, Gribble was chief of research and development of the Army. He served on active duty for 35 years.

Gribble was born in Ironwood, Mich., and attended Michigan Technological University before he was appointed to the U.S. Military Academy. He was graduated at West Point in 1941 and commissioned in the Corps of Engineers.

During World War II he served in Alaska on the construction of the Alcan Highway and in combat in the South Pacific, where he commanded an engineer combat battalion and preceded Gen. Douglas MacArthur's landing on Luzon in 1944.

In 1948, Gribble received a M.S. degree from the University of Chicago. He was assigned to the Los Alamos, N.M., Scientific Laboratory and attended the national reactor school in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Gribble played a major role in the development of small nuclear power plants for military uses before he was reassigned to Alaska in 1956. He was the Alaskan district engineer for four years.

After graduating from the National War College in 1961, Gribble returned to the research and development field and was assigned to the Army Materiel Command.

LT GEN. W.C. GRIBBLE JR.
Former Fort Belvoir commander

His next assignments included division engineer in Chicago, deputy chief of research and development and deputy assistant chief of staff for force development. He was commanding general of the Engineer Center and Fort Belvoir in 1971 before returning to the Pentagon to become the Army's chief of research and development.

He leaves his wife, the former Jane Watson, two sons, William C. III of Great Falls, Va., and Donald J., of Gatherville, Ga., two daughters, Nancy Hefflin of Salisbury, Md., and Judith Babuschak of Stafford, Va., his mother, Grace, and a sister, Grace Wylie of Wausau, Wis., and seven grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Fort Myer Chapel, with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

The family suggests that expressions of sympathy be in the form of contributions to the American Cancer Society or to the Army Engineer's Memorial Award Fund, in care of the Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D.C. 20314.

CRYSTAL FALLS — Stella M. Simeoni, 85, of 126 High St., Crystal Falls, died Friday, Sept. 5, 2003, at her home.

She was born on Oct. 21, 1917, in Crystal Falls, daughter of the late Peter Bryson and Estella (Bosanko) Bryson Dahlgard.

Mrs. Simeoni graduated from Crystal Falls High School in 1935. She worked at Herman Holmes Contracting Office before joining the Women's Army Air Corps in January of 1943. She served in the Air Corps for three years.

Stella was a lifelong member of Christ United Methodist Church and belonged to the church choir and the Ruth Circle. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star. Stella enjoyed reading and traveling.

She married Bruno Simeoni on Jan. 26, 1946, in Crystal Falls and he preceded her in death in February of 2001.

She is survived by a son, Mark (Susie) Simeoni of Crystal Falls; two daughters, Peggy (Bob) Bortolameolli of Marquette and Sally (Pierre) Gendron of Coon Rapids, Minn.; six grandchildren, Rick and Bob Bortolameolli, Julia Booras, Michael Simeoni, Christi Pletcher, and Carrie Gendron.

Visitation will be from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Wednesday at Christ United Methodist Church in Crystal Falls.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the church with the Rev. Elbert Dulworth officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

The Langenberg Funeral Home of Crystal Falls is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

In the third study, including patients on prior single or multiple therapies, in patients inadequately controlled on the maximal dose of glyburide (20 mg daily), Avandia 2 mg twice daily plus sulfonylurea significantly reduced FPG ($n=98$, mean change from baseline of -31 mg/dL) and HbA1c (mean change from baseline of -0.5%) compared to sulfonylurea plus placebo ($n=99$, mean change from baseline of FPG of $+24$ mg/dL and of HbA1c of $+0.9\%$). The combination of sulfonylurea and Avandia resulted in lower levels of FPG and HbA1c than either agent alone. Patients who were switched from maximal dose of glyburide to 2 mg twice daily Avandia monotherapy demonstrated loss of glycemic control, as evidenced by increases in FPG and HbA1c.

INDICATIONS AND USAGE

Avandia is indicated as an adjunct to diet and exercise to improve glycemic control in patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus. Avandia is indicated as monotherapy. Avandia is also indicated for use in combination with a sulfonylurea or metformin when diet, exercise and a single agent do not result in adequate glycemic control. For patients inadequately controlled with a maximum dose of a sulfonylurea or metformin, Avandia should be added to, rather than substituted for, a sulfonylurea or metformin.

Management of type 2 diabetes should include diet control. Caloric restriction, weight loss, and exercise are essential for the proper treatment of the diabetic patient because they help improve insulin sensitivity. This is important not only in the primary treatment of type 2 diabetes, but also in maintaining the efficacy of drug therapy. Prior to initiation of therapy with Avandia (rosiglitazone maleate), secondary causes of poor glycemic control, e.g., infection, should be investigated and treated.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

Avandia is contraindicated in patients with known hypersensitivity to this product or any of its components.

WARNINGS

Cardiac Failure and Other Cardiac Effects: Avandia, like other thiazolidinediones, alone or in combination with other antidiabetic agents, can cause fluid retention, which may exacerbate or lead to heart failure. Patients should be observed for signs and symptoms of heart failure. Avandia should be discontinued if any deterioration in cardiac status occurs. Patients with New York Heart Association (NYHA) Class 3 and 4 cardiac status were not studied during the clinical trials. Avandia is not recommended in patients with NYHA Class 3 and 4 cardiac status.

In two 26-week U.S. trials involving 611 patients with type 2 diabetes, Avandia plus insulin therapy was compared with insulin therapy alone. These trials included patients with long-standing diabetes and a high prevalence of pre-existing medical conditions, including peripheral neuropathy (34%), retinopathy (19%), ischemic heart disease (14%), vascular disease (9%), and congestive heart failure (2.5%). In these clinical studies an increased incidence of cardiac failure and other cardiovascular adverse events were seen in patients on Avandia and insulin combination therapy compared to insulin and placebo. Patients who experienced heart failure were on average older, had a longer duration of diabetes, and were mostly on the higher 8 mg daily dose of Avandia. In this population, however, it was not possible to determine specific risk factors that could be used to identify all patients at risk of heart failure on combination therapy. Three of 10 patients who developed cardiac failure on combination therapy during the double blind part of the studies had no known prior evidence of congestive heart failure, or pre-existing cardiac condition. The use of Avandia (rosiglitazone maleate) in combination therapy with insulin is not indicated (see ADVERSE REACTIONS).

PRECAUTIONS

General

Due to its mechanism of action, Avandia is active only in the presence of endogenous insulin. Therefore, Avandia should not be used in patients with type 1 diabetes or for the treatment of diabetic ketoacidosis.

Hypoglycemia: Patients receiving Avandia in combination with other hypoglycemic agents may be at risk for hypoglycemia, and a reduction in the dose of the concomitant agent may be necessary.

Edema: Avandia should be used with caution in patients with edema. In a clinical study in healthy volunteers who received Avandia 8 mg once daily for 8 weeks, there was a statistically significant increase in median plasma volume compared to placebo.

Since thiazolidinediones, including rosiglitazone, can cause fluid retention, which can exacerbate or lead to congestive heart failure, Avandia should be used with caution in patients at risk for heart failure. Patients should be monitored for signs and symptoms of heart failure (see WARNINGS, Cardiac Failure and Other Cardiac Effects and PRECAUTIONS, Information for Patients).

In controlled clinical trials of patients with type 2 diabetes, mild to moderate edema was reported in patients treated with Avandia, and may be dose related. Patients with ongoing edema are more likely to have adverse events associated with edema if started on combination therapy with insulin and Avandia (see ADVERSE REACTIONS).

Weight Gain: Dose-related weight gain was seen with Avandia alone and in combination with other hypoglycemic agents (Table 6). The mechanism of weight gain is unclear but probably involves a combination of fluid retention and fat accumulation.

Table 6. Weight Changes (kg) from Baseline During Clinical Trials with Avandia

		Control Group		Avandia 4 mg	Avandia 8 mg
Monotherapy	Duration		Median (25 th , 75 th percentile)	Median (25 th , 75 th percentile)	Median (25 th , 75 th percentile)
	26 weeks	placebo	-0.9 (-2.8, 0.9)	1.0 (-0.9, 3.6)	3.1 (1.1, 5.8)
	52 weeks	sulfonylurea	2.0 (0, 4.0)	2.0 (-0.6, 4.0)	2.6 (0, 5.3)
Combination therapy
sulfonylurea	26 weeks	sulfonylurea	0 (-1.3, 1.2)	1.8 (0, 3.1)	—
metformin	26 weeks	metformin	-1.4 (-3.2, 0.2)	0.8 (-1.0, 2.6)	2.1 (0, 4.3)
insulin	26 weeks	insulin	0.9 (-0.5, 2.7)	4.1 (1.4, 6.3)	5.4 (3.4, 7.3)

Hematologic: Across all controlled clinical studies, decreases in hemoglobin and hematocrit (mean decreases in individual studies ≤ 1.0 gram/dL and $\leq 3.3\%$, respectively) were observed for Avandia alone and in combination with other hypoglycemic agents. The changes occurred primarily during the first 3 months following initiation of Avandia therapy or following an increase in Avandia dose. White blood cell counts also decreased slightly in patients treated with Avandia. The observed changes may be related to the increased plasma volume observed with treatment with Avandia and may be dose related (see ADVERSE REACTIONS, Laboratory Abnormalities).

Ovulation: Therapy with Avandia, like other thiazolidinediones, may result in ovulation in some premenopausal anovulatory women. As a result, these patients may be at an increased risk for pregnancy while taking Avandia (see PRECAUTIONS, Pregnancy, Pregnancy Category C). Thus, adequate contraception in premenopausal women should be recommended. This possible effect has not been specifically investigated in clinical studies so the frequency of this occurrence is not known.

Although hormonal imbalance has been seen in preclinical studies (see PRECAUTIONS, Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility), the clinical significance of this finding is not known. If unexpected menstrual dysfunction occurs, the benefits of continued therapy with Avandia should be reviewed.

Hepatic Effects: Another drug of the thiazolidinedione class, troglitazone, was associated with idiosyncratic hepatotoxicity, and very rare cases of liver failure, liver transplants, and death were reported during clinical use. In pre-approval controlled clinical trials in patients with type 2 diabetes, troglitazone was more frequently associated with clinically significant elevations in liver enzymes (ALT $> 3\times$ upper limit of normal) compared to placebo. Very rare cases of reversible jaundice were also reported.

In pre-approval clinical studies in 4598 patients treated with Avandia, encompassing approximately 3600 patient years of exposure, there was no signal of drug-induced hepatotoxicity or elevation of ALT levels. In the pre-approval controlled trials, 0.2% of patients treated with Avandia had elevations in ALT $> 3\times$ the upper limit of normal compared to 0.2% on placebo and 0.5% on active comparators. The ALT elevations in patients treated with Avandia were reversible and were not clearly causally related to therapy with Avandia (rosiglitazone maleate).

In postmarketing experience with Avandia, reports of hepatitis and of hepatic enzyme elevations to three or more times the upper limit of normal have been received. Very rarely, these reports have involved hepatic failure with and without fatal outcome, although causality has not been established. Rosiglitazone is structurally related to troglitazone, a thiazolidinedione no longer marketed in the United States, which was associated with idiosyncratic hepatotoxicity and rare cases of liver failure, liver transplants, and death during clinical use. Pending the availability of the results of additional large, long-term controlled clinical trials and additional postmarketing safety data, it is recommended that patients treated with Avandia undergo periodic monitoring of liver enzymes.

Liver enzymes should be checked prior to the initiation of therapy with Avandia in all patients. Therapy with Avandia should not be initiated in patients with increased baseline liver enzyme levels (ALT $> 2.5\times$ upper limit of normal). In patients with normal baseline liver enzymes, following initiation of therapy with Avandia, it is recommended that liver enzymes be monitored every 2 months for the first 12 months, and periodically thereafter. Patients with mildly elevated liver enzymes (ALT levels $\leq 2.5\times$ upper limit of normal) at baseline or during therapy with Avandia should be evaluated to determine the cause of the liver enzyme elevation. Initiation of, or continuation of, therapy with Avandia in patients with mild liver enzyme elevations should proceed with caution and include close clinical follow-up, including more frequent liver enzyme monitoring, to determine if the liver enzyme elevations resolve or worsen. If at any time ALT levels increase to $> 3\times$ the upper limit of normal in patients on therapy with Avandia, liver enzyme levels should be rechecked as soon as possible. If ALT levels remain $> 3\times$ the upper limit of normal, therapy with Avandia should be discontinued.

There are no data available from clinical trials to evaluate the safety of Avandia in patients who experienced liver abnormalities, hepatic dysfunction, or jaundice while on troglitazone. Avandia (rosiglitazone maleate) should not be used in patients who experienced jaundice while taking troglitazone.

If any patient develops symptoms suggesting hepatic dysfunction, which may include unexplained nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, fatigue, anorexia and/or dark urine, liver enzymes should be checked. The decision whether to continue the patient on therapy with Avandia should be guided by clinical judgment pending laboratory evaluations. If jaundice is observed, drug therapy should be discontinued.

Laboratory Tests

Periodic fasting blood glucose and HbA1c measurements should be performed to monitor therapeutic response.

Liver enzyme monitoring is recommended prior to initiation of therapy with Avandia in all patients and periodically thereafter (see PRECAUTIONS, Hepatic Effects and ADVERSE REACTIONS, Serum Transaminase Levels).

Information for Patients

Patients should be informed of the following:

Management of type 2 diabetes should include diet control. Caloric restriction, weight loss, and exercise are essential for the proper treatment of the diabetic patient because they help improve insulin sensitivity. This is important not only in the primary treatment of type 2 diabetes, but in maintaining the efficacy of drug therapy.

It is important to adhere to dietary instructions and to regularly have blood glucose and glycosylated hemoglobin tested. Patients should be advised that it can take 2 weeks to see a reduction in blood glucose and 2 to 3 months to see full effect. Patients should be informed that blood will be drawn to check their liver function prior to the start of therapy and every 2 months for the first 12 months, and periodically thereafter. Patients with unexplained symptoms of nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, fatigue, anorexia, or dark urine should immediately report these symptoms to their physician. Patients who experience an unusually rapid increase in weight or edema or who develop shortness of breath or other symptoms of heart failure while on Avandia should immediately report these symptoms to their physician.

Avandia can be taken with or without meals.

When using Avandia in combination with other hypoglycemic agents, the risk of hypoglycemia, its symptoms and treatment, and conditions that predispose to its development should be explained to patients and their family members.

Therapy with Avandia, like other thiazolidinediones, may result in ovulation in some premenopausal anovulatory women. As a result, these patients may be at an increased risk for pregnancy while taking Avandia (see PRECAUTIONS, Pregnancy, Pregnancy Category C). Thus, adequate contraception in premenopausal women should be recommended. This possible effect has not been specifically investigated in clinical studies so the frequency of this occurrence is not known.

Drug Interactions

Drugs Metabolized by Cytochrome P₄₅₀

In vitro drug metabolism studies suggest that rosiglitazone does not inhibit any of the major P₄₅₀ enzymes at clinically relevant concentrations. In vitro data demonstrate that rosiglitazone is predominantly metabolized by CYP2C8, and to a lesser extent, 2C9.

Avandia (4 mg twice daily) was shown to have no clinically relevant effect on the pharmacokinetics of nifedipine and oral contraceptives (ethinylestradiol and norethindrone), which are predominantly metabolized by CYP3A4.

Glyburide: Avandia (2 mg twice daily) taken concomitantly with glyburide (3.75 to 10 mg/day) for 7 days did not alter the mean steady-state 24-hour plasma glucose concentrations in diabetic patients stabilized on glyburide therapy.

Metformin: Concurrent administration of Avandia (2 mg twice daily) and metformin (500 mg twice daily) in healthy volunteers for 4 days had no effect on the steady-state pharmacokinetics of either metformin or rosiglitazone.

Acarbose: Coadministration of acarbose (100 mg three times daily) for 7 days in healthy volunteers had no clinically relevant effect on the pharmacokinetics of a single oral dose of Avandia.

Digoxin: Repeat oral dosing of Avandia (8 mg once daily) for 14 days did not alter the steady-state pharmacokinetics of digoxin (0.375 mg once daily) in healthy volunteers.

Warfarin: Repeat dosing with Avandia had no clinically relevant effect on the steady-state pharmacokinetics of warfarin enantiomers.

Ethanol: A single administration of a moderate amount of alcohol did not increase the risk of acute hypoglycemia in type 2 diabetes mellitus patients treated with Avandia (rosiglitazone maleate).

AN EDUCATIONAL HEALTH SERIES FROM NATIONAL JEWISH MEDICAL AND RESEARCH CENTER

Bronchiectasis

Bronchiectasis (pronounced bron-kee-ek'-tas-is) is a disorder of the airways within the lungs. Inflammation and infections cause damage to the airways with alteration in the lining layer of the airways. The airways become distorted and enlarged. Enlargement can be uniform or irregular. Mucus can collect in the airways and is difficult to clear because of the damage to the normal ways the airways clear the mucus. This can lead to episodes of infection. Early diagnosis and treatment of bronchiectasis and the infections that occur are very important. You may be born with bronchiectasis, or you may acquire it as an adult or child through one or more of the following ways:

- Inadvertent inhalation of oral or stomach material into your lungs, causing chronic airway inflammation. Severe gastroesophageal reflux (heartburn) which occurs when the valve or sphincter connecting your esophagus and stomach is too relaxed; may allow a backward flow of stomach contents to enter your lungs and irritate the airways. Impaired ability to swallow may also cause saliva or food to enter the lungs.
- Having another chronic lung condition, such as cystic fibrosis, allergic aspergillosis, tuberculosis, other mycobacteria diseases such as MAI, whooping cough (pertussis), or an immune deficiency disease or severe or repeated episodes pneumonia.
- Disorders that affect the function of the cilia (small hairs that line the airways).
- Obstruction in your airways because of a growth or tumor.
- Kartagener's Syndrome, a rare inherited disease that combines bronchiectasis, loss of ability to clear mucus and chronic sinusitis.

Development of Bronchiectasis

First, inflammation to the walls of the airway occurs from any mechanism (listed in the previous section). The inflammation causes injury to the airways. The resulting loss of the normal defenses of the respiratory tract leads to the loss of ability to clear mucus, making the airways susceptible to infections. Repeated lung infections can cause worsening of the damage to the airway walls.

What are the symptoms?

Symptoms of bronchiectasis include a cough with raising mucus from the lungs. With infections the mucus may be discolored and foul smelling, sometimes containing blood. Fatigue, weight loss, shortness of breath and abnormal chest sounds can occur. Occasionally people with bronchiectasis also have chronic sinusitis that requires further evaluation since bronchiectasis and sinusitis may be due to other diseases. If bronchiectasis is not treated, you may experience increasing shortness of breath, rounding at the tips of the fingers (clubbing) from chronic lung infection and possibly heart failure.

She is survived by a son, Mark (Susie) Simeoni of Crystal Falls; two daughters, Peggy (Bob) Bortolameolli of Marquette and Sally (Pierre) Gendron of Coon Rapids, Minn.; six grandchildren, Rick and Bob Bortolameolli, Julia Booras, Michael Simeoni, Christi Pletcher, and Carrie Gendron.

Visitation will be from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Wednesday at Christ United Methodist Church in Crystal Falls.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the church with the Rev. Elbert Dulworth officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

- Treatment of allergic bronchpulmonary aspergillosis with steroids.
- Treatment of chronic infections such as Non-Tuberculous Mycobacteria.

Surgery is occasionally indicated

- usually only if bronchiectasis is very localized in the lung and medical treatment and other therapies are not effective.

What are your responsibilities in managing bronchiectasis?

- Quit smoking and avoid exposure to passive smoke. Ask your health care provider for techniques to help you quit smoking.
- Get a flu shot yearly and a pneumococcal vaccine every 5 or 6 years as recommended by your health care provider.
- Exercise regularly as directed by your health care provider. This helps you breathe easier by improving your muscle strength and tone and helps improve clearing the mucus from the airways.
- Eat a well-balanced diet and drink plenty of fluids.
